

Damoun Ashournia

“A Dynamic Analysis of Globalization and Unemployment”

Abstract:

This paper builds and estimates a dynamic structural model of the labor market with sector-specific human capital. Trade shocks lead to a sectoral reallocation of workers, which implies a loss of human capital. Further, insofar as the reallocation is sluggish, affected workers may experience a period of unemployment.